INPROBA EXPANDS SAUCE PRODUCTION CAPACITY BY 20%

Inproba B.V. commences a significant upgrade of two of its primary manufacturing lines, enabling the company to increase sauce production by 20%. The upgrade will be completed by the end of June. The production expansion mainly benefits the soy and (sweet) chili sauces that Inproba produces.

Jeroen van Dongen, Commercial Director of Inproba explains: "This expansion is the first stage in the ambitious investment roadmap that we worked out with our new investors at the beginning of 2025. Our private label clients have requested more production capacity for their Asian sauce category for quite some time. Until now we weren't able to support these requests, but with this new investment we can move forward again. We are looking forward to discuss new opportunities with our clients at the upcoming PLMA."

Inproba is the leading European private label manufacturer of high-quality Asian sauces. The company is based in Baarn, Netherlands, and employs 200 people. Inproba was acquired by Amsterdam-based private equity firm Value Enhancement Partners in February 2025.
